SUMMARY

As a mechanical engineering student, my current goal is to clear my backlog subjects within the next few months by working diligently and managing my time effectively. Alongside my studies, I am eager to explore the digital marketing field, aiming to gain practical experience and develop new skills relevant to today's market. I believe combining my engineering background with digital marketing expertise will open up unique career opportunities. With hard work, I am confident I can overcome academic challenges and build a strong foundation in both mechanical engineering and digital marketing for a promising future
